A Seamans Journal

THE OUTWARD BOUND.

BY M. M. BALLOU.

The anchor's apeak, boys, the ship's under way;
Her prow gathers quickly a white mound of spray;
Hoist away on the jib, boys, her courses let fall,
T'gallantsails, royals, set them all, set them all!

Bend on to the halyards—to the peak hoist away—
'Tis the Flag of our Union—belay there, belay;
Its broad field outspread, to leeward let fly;
See the stars and the stripes, as they kiss the blue sky.

Farewell to the shore, boys, the headlands are cleared,
With plenty of sea-room, there's nought to be feared;
What though the fierce storm-king his vengeance shall hurl?
We care not at sea, we can reef, boys, and furl!

One last look at land, one kind thought of home,
To cheer us to duty, mid the sea's angry foam;
Now brace up the yards, boys, so—well, as she goes,
Here's a farewell to all, boys, to friends and to foes!

THE BRIDE.—I know of no sight more charming and touching than that of a young and tender bride in her robes of virgin white, led up trembling to the altar. When I thus behold a lovely girl in that tenderness of her years forsake the house of her father and the home of her childhood—and with the implicit confidence and the self-abandonment which belong to women, giving up all the world for the man of her choice; when I hear her, in the good old language of the ritual, yielding herself to him "for better or worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love, honour, and obey, till death us do part," it brings to mind the beautiful and affecting devotion of Ruth—"Whither thou goest I will go, and where thou lodgest I will lodge—thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God."—Washington Irving.

Lines to the Wife.

Though tossed upon life's stormy sea,
While counts Calamity's sum,
My soul shall cling to thee,
& Sunbeams to the sun.
Heart of my heart, soul of my soul,
Whirled I may be,
True as the needle to the pole,
So my poor heart to thee.

Fortune and fame are trifling things
Without thee Smile Sweet Wife,
Like summer birds, with nimble wings,
That fly when storms are rife.
A cup of water and a crust,
Within a humble cot,
& joy'st about the gilded dust
Thy cowards what thou art not.

When at the cross I see thee kneel
That asks to be forgiven,
Oh! then dear Wife I think of thee,
As like the Dove in Heaven!
I think of thee, when Hope with Care,
And hope with hands for Bread,
To God will lend thy holy prayer
From life that knew no guile.

George A. Smith.

Remarks in regard to the loss of the Hecla.

Remarks Thursda. December 29th. First part good breez from the N. West at Two P.M. Sighted Bird Isl. and Stood for the Isl with head all sail Set until Five P.M. then luffed by the wind to the Westward at Sun set took light Sails and reefed the Topsails at that time to Bird Isl. bearing S. West distant Six Miles. Stood on the western tack until Eight P.M. then wore Ship heading N.N. East with a good breez from the N. West under reefed Topsails, Courses, Two Jibs, Fore Topmast Staysail, Spanker & Gaff-Topsail Supposeing the Current to be going to the N East three Miles per hour as it had been for the past ten days, but the Current had turned its Course round to the South, Stood on the N.E Eastern tack until Ten thirty P.M. then wore Ship heading W by S ½ South, and Stood on the last tack mentioned until Two A.M. the Orders were to ware Ship again at that time, and in so doing the Ship Struck on the Reef on the North end of Bird Isl. All hands were immediately Called on deck. Third Officer had the watch, got the Ship to the wind heading N E by North. Made all Sail on the Ship in hopes to drag her off, but the third time she Struck, it unhung the Rudder and made it useless, had to work the fore and aft Sails in order to keep the Ship to the wind, and in so doing it forced the Ship along about Four times her length, the Ship Striking heavy all the time, tryed the Pumps and Could not free the Ship of water, at three A.M. the Ship was hard and fast on the Reef, furled all the Sails, bent Port Cable and let go Port Anchor, to stop the Ship from going into heavy breakers, at Four A.M. the Ship Bilged, and the water was above the Cabin floor, and the only remaining thing for us to do was to Save our lives, and what Clothes we Could, for the Ship was going to pieces, put our things into the Boats with what Sails we could save off the Yards and landed them on Bird Isl and then went back to the Ship and stopped on board until all the Masts went by the board, the men were obliged to leave the wreck for the Sea was breaking clear over her.

So Ends this day.

Friday 30th Pitched our Tents on the Isl and then went to the North part of the Isl to look at the wreck and found she was going to pieces very fast. Saved three Casks of Oil with our Boats, as it was drifting by the Isl, during the day the Bark Osra Taft & Herald anchored on the South side of the Isl to render assistance, In the afternoon the Capt & First Officer got on board of the Ship through the breakers by a rope made fast to the Ship, and cut the Port Cable in hopes the wreck would drive higher up, but tried to save a cask of Bread to eat while remaining on the Isl but could not, Stop on board it being so rugged, so left the wreck and went back to Camp, at Eleven Oclock PM Friday night Capt. First & Second Officers went to the wreck found she had altered her position considerably and was still going to pieces and continuing to drive higher up, wind blowing fresh with heavy Rain Squalls, Thunder & Lightning from W West to N North.

Saturday 31st Still blowing fresh from the W West and Rainy at Eight Oclock had hard Bread & Coffee and Salt Eggs for breakfast at Eight thirty AM all hands went to the wreck Cut a large hole in the deck in hopes to get out some Oil but only one Cask could not get it out a heavy sea breaking over the wreck all the time: at Eleven Oclock had to leave the wreck it was blowing a heavy Gale from the N West Herald & Osra Taft put to Sea remainder of the day blowing a Gale Ship still working to pieces and driving higher up. Suppose the Oil to be about all blown to pieces for we picked up a great many empty Casks. So give up this day and went into Camp to enjoy Camp life, have had enjoyment

Remarks Sunday January 1st 1854

New Years Commenced and I hope it will prove a more successful one to me than the last. allhands got breakfast and went to the wreck. got all the Spars & Davits onshore. Two Casks of Flour Five Coils of Tow Line one Cask of Bread, and other things. worked until two oclock. then it got so rugged had to leave. for Camp. got dinner, and loafed the rest of the day. it remaining pleasant overhead. Herald & Assaye Past. in sight. off the North end of the Is. distant Seven Miles. " Bo Ends.

Remarks Monday Jan 2d. Allhands went to the Wreck, and saved some provisions. Two Line & three Casks of Pork.

Remarks Tuesday Jan 3d Commencing pleasant, allhands took their Traps. and repaired onboard the good Ships Herald & Assaye Past. bound to Manila. where we recieved a great deal of kindness from Capts. Officers & Crew.

Bo ends the Heclas Voyage.

SUNBEAM, JO WING.

COMPOSED AT SEA,

BY HENRY GOODING.

Oh, don't you remember the Sunbeam, Jo Wing,
The Sunbeam, with decks scraped so white?
Whose rails we scrubbed round with a rag every day,
And had to keep going till night.

Oh, down in the pantry, in the cabin, Jo Wing,
In lockers obscure and alone,
You put grub enough for the crew all to eat,
But the "Skipper" would let us have none.

And don't you remember the anchors, Jo Wing,
And cables, that we scraped so bright?
We scraped them all, all day, till our backs were sore,
Then had to keep awake half the night.

Oh, don't you remember the "Skipper," Jo Wing,
Old Cromwell, whose beard was so grey?
Who beat us, and banged us all over the deck,
And made us scrub decks twice per day.

Oh, don't you remember old Porky*, Ben Bolt,
Poor Porky, so tall and so slim?
He was half scared to death, and would Tripp* up aloft
If old Cromwell said boo to him.

Oh, don't you remember old Daddy, Jo Wing,
Old Daddy whose pate was so bright?
He was half scared to death, and would jump down the hold,
Whenever Old Sam hove in sight.

And don't you remember the Steward, Jo Wing,
Old Steward, whose head was so bald?
Who would fly through the cabin like a man void of wit,
And near fainted if Cromwell would call.
